LITTLE SCHOOLHOUSE

Many Peachland residents hold fond memories attached to the 1898 Schoolhouse and to the Church it subsequently became in 1908. It is now managed by the Little Schoolhouse Society.

The hall with its raised corner stage and acoustics may be booked for meetings, dinners, family reunions, artistic and musical events etc. Yoga classes have taken full advantage of the spacious and restful ambience of the premises

There is abundant natural lighting from six large windows making it a splendid place for artisans to work, demonstrate, and exhibit their crafts and hold craft workshops. The Arts Council incorporates the Schoolhouse as venue for art exhibitions. An ambition is to see St. Margaret's Gardens (in cooperation with St. Margaret's Church next door) landscaped into a flower garden and shady nook ideal for wedding photographs and outdoor exhibitions.

Throughout the summer, afternoon tea is served on the terrace.
