

LANDSCAPE

Stone Table and Benches

This natural setting of a stone table and benches was created over a period of time by the public works crew. It was an idea of the groundskeeper Brad Lazar to offer an indestructible area for travellers and transients. It's right downtown, close to the waterfront, but in a secluded spot that not too many locals are aware of, close to Doggy Beach and the "T" Boat Launch. It took some time for the Equipment Operators to set aside the right size and shape of boulders that they found when working. The secluded waterfront location, surrounding landscape of trees and grass, together with the play of light and shadow make this simple installation a work of art in constant change.

