Canada Post Strike

The Canadian Union of Postal Workers (CUPW) has launched a national strike. Mail and parcels will not be processed or delivered until further notice. In addition, CUPW has warned that delivery delays may continue even after the strike ends.

The District of Peachland would like to remind residents about alternative ways to receive and pay their utility bills.

Peachland utility customers are responsible for keeping accounts up to date and ensuring that payments reach the District by the due date, regardless of any mail service disruption.
